

Scholarships are financial awards which can help pay for college and do not have to be paid back. When trying to find/research online scholarships, it is crucial to thoroughly research the scholarship provider before applying. Carefully review the organization's website, contact information, and any available details about their scholarship program to ensure legitimacy and protect your personal information.

Scholarship Search Sites:

The sites below keep up-to-date scholarship search engines. Several sites allow you to search by specific categories or upcoming due dates. Be sure to do your due diligence in researching the scholarship and fill out a strong application!

- niche.com
- scholarshipowl.com
- scholarships360.org
- fastweb.com
- scholarships.com
- collegeboard.org

When researching a scholarship and before applying, ensure you meet all the scholarship requirements. Some will require you to be a US citizen, pursue a certain type of degree, have a minimum GPA, meet a level of financial need, be a certain age, be from a specific area, or participate in a scholarship program to a certain capacity.
